SUGGESTION BOX:

SUGGESTION: Reference withdrawal of Soldiers' Deposits; "SOAK IT ~~away~~ WHILE YOU'VE GOT IT! Did you know the army runs a special bank for you right in your own unit...that Uncle Sam pays you to save? It is called Soldiers' Deposits. It is designed for you and pays you the biggest interest you can get on savings. Try it...you can't lose. If you need the dough you can get it out again. Start to save now for the day you'll really need it!" Just who decides if one needs the dough?? the man who deposited it or some "wheel"??

REPLY: The "wheel"! For 3a (4) AR 35-2600 says: "Deposits may be withdrawn by an enlisted man at any time when on duty outside the continental limits of the United States, upon the approval of his regimental or separate battalion commander." In our case this is the Station Commanding Officer.
