SUGGESTION BOX:

SUGGESTION: "The redeployment of men back to the US has left some ratings open. Now, why is it that men who step into their places cannot be given the ratings that are open. We are told that a man cannot be moved up more than one rating at a time. We think that some Staff Sergeants who served in the capacity of Master Sergeants for a year and in some cases 18 months, can easily handle the sudden jump. As a matter of fact, they more than deserve it.

There is no Army Regulation controlling promotions of enlisted men, so please don't just quote some Station Regulation of which there are many. But they are just part of a local disease this Group has always had. Let's just make a sincere effort to reward the GI for a change. It would boost morale also.

SUGGESTION BOX (contd)

REPLY: The first paragraph is an excellent suggestion but the second one is just another "bitch". The promotion of E.I. is controlled by AI 615-5 and there is no Station Regulation on the subject.

The present policy at this station is to promote any E.I. known to be qualified at any time, provided there is a T.O. vacancy and he is recommended by his Squadron C.O.
